

Mother-daughter writing team in Sellwood.

Sandra Denbo and Tamarine Vilar are a mother-daughter writing team based in Sellwood, and they have recently published their first novel, "Unwanted Discovery". They work together to create the plots, write, and edit. There are at least three sequels in the making, probably more, they say. "We like our characters. Since our heroines, Sharon Cooper, and her daughter Callie are fashioned after us, they have our foibles. They are human, and sometimes don't always know the right thing to do. Life gets in the way, but they always handle it with time-tested qualities of love, honor and respect," they say - adding that the first sequel will be released early next year. They are working with a Portland publisher, Inkwater Press, and "Unwanted Discovery" is available at Wallace Books on S.E. Milwaukie Avenue in Westmoreland, as well as at Amazon.com, Barnesandnoble.com, Powells.com, and Inkwaterpress.com. Learn more online at: www.theunwantedseries.net
